

Journal Reviewing Procedure

Two independent reviewers are invited to review every submitted publication.

For papers written in English language at least one of the reviewers should be affiliated to a foreign institution.

The author and the reviewer should remain anonymous to each other. A double-blind review process is recommended.

Review must be in written form and include definite conclusion on whether article should be published.

Criteria on which the article is accepted or rejected and eventual review form are available on a journal web site.

Names of reviewers of articles in particular issue are not disclosed, the journal publishes a list of reviewers once a year.
